GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Wheat Corner

CHICAGO, July 27.—Intense interest is felt in the result of the great corner in wheat now being run by the Milwaukee and Chicago commission merchants. The price has been steadily advanced for two weeks, with the prospect of being maintained at present rate, or at still higher ones, for the remainder of the month. The visible supply of wheat is now but about four millions, and short sales for August delivery aggregate nearly twenty millions. Meanwhile although some damage has been done to the crops in this section it is believed no widespread or great injury exists.

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—On the strength of the injunction restraining Mayor Bowman from interfering, the Illinois and St. Louis road put a large force to work to-day, and by [illegible] nearly completed their track through to St. Louis to the bridge. A large crowd of angry citizens witnessed the work and indulged in threats, but no open demonstration was made. The [illegible] of the Vermillion river ordinarily [illegible] rods wide, was filled to the [illegible] 5 miles and a depth of 10 to 30 [illegible] destruction of property is reported.

Lands for Pre-emption.

[illegible], July 27.—Secretary Schurz decides [illegible] that Union Pacific lands not [illegible] pre-empted by settlers at $1.25 [illegible] will throw open to the public a large [illegible] valuable land in Nebraska. There [illegible] it will nearly all be pre-empted. [illegible] land commissioner Leavitt [illegible] In some counties the road [illegible] valued as high as $12 per acre [illegible] propose to contest all cases of such [illegible]. The result will be a lively [illegible] the part of the Union Pacific [illegible] very heavy loser by this decision.

Before 7 o'clock the [illegible] announced that he intended to pay [illegible] $1.25 per day, but this was not satisfactory [illegible] the 200 or 300 idle workingmen [illegible] hour arrived for beginning work [illegible] employed by the contractor began [illegible] they were greeted with shouts of [illegible] "We will not let a man work [illegible] $1.60 a day." There being some [illegible] the crowd assembled intended [illegible] to force the mounted police charged [illegible] and drove them in all directions. [illegible] followed for several blocks and [illegible] shots were fired by the police to stimulate their movements. They went off [illegible] come back several hundred [illegible] "wipe out the police." It has re[illegible] the presence of nearly fifty policemen [illegible] the streets approaching the [illegible] near which the new building is to [illegible] of the disorderly crowd of idle [illegible] majority of the rioters are negroes [illegible] believe that they can quell any [illegible] may occur but in order to afford [illegible] to the men who are working, since [illegible] the city are left without a single [illegible] to protect valuable property. Government Sovereignty

Secretary [illegible] was called into conference, [illegible] stand in favor of the government['s] assertion of its rights to control the [illegible] and was so determined that no other probable course was open to the administration [illegible] that the president yielded his [illegible] [illegible] by Evarts. It is known that the [illegible] and Gen Devens [illegible] desirous of [illegible] and had decided not to have the case [illegible].

Georgia Independents

WASHINGTON, July [illegible].—A Georgia Democrat [illegible] to the Independent movement in that state [illegible] the strength of the Independent movement in Georgia is greater than your [illegible] of the state imagines. The Democratic party leaders are very much alarmed [illegible] that a Democratic defeat in 1880 would dissolve the party in Georgia. The writer expresses disgust for northern Democrats and says as a class they bear about the same relation to the Republican party of the north that the Republicans of the south bear to the southerners who have heretofore acted with the Democratic party. He desires his name withheld from the press [illegible] the movement shall take shape [illegible] I [illegible] want [illegible] only write to stiffen you and the president in persevering [illegible] following the straight road in which I never knew a man to get lost.

THE POTTER INVESTIGATION

ATLANTIC CITY, July [illegible].

Morey testified that it was a [illegible] to convey Eliza Pinkston to the committee room on a sofa.

General Sypher recalled—testified he couldn't swear [illegible] Secretary Sherman's signature.

Dennis of Florida was allowed to make an explanation to the effect that he had never [illegible] Noyes [illegible] called together the blacks in [illegible] in Florida and made them swear to avenge his death. Noyes must have been misinformed.

Ex Senator Trumbull related the circumstances under which the committee of Democrats visited New Orleans, that the committee were not present when the board retired for deliberation; did not see a [illegible] of the results or know whether any affidavits were read to the board.

Ex congressman [illegible] resumed the witness chair and gave it as his impression that if the Packard government had been recognized in the first place as Kellogg's government had been and had the president said he intended to maintain the Packard government and given to it the necessary moral support there would have been no trouble in maintaining it.

Witness incidentally said he had one or two interviews with the president at great length during which witness agreed that the withdrawal of the troops from New Orleans and not maintaining the Packard government would be a destruction of the Republican party in the south. The president took the position that the Republican party could no longer maintain that policy which had lost New York to the Republicans, and the party had become weaker in consequence. Therefore the good of the Republican party demanded the change. The president treated the subject as of national concern. Witness said so far as he knew no returns had been thrown out by the returning board on inadequate and insufficient proof. There was a movement to make Nicholls governor even to the extent of violence. [Gen Butler interposed, saying, "And in this [illegible] had the aid of the president, and the McVeigh commission."] The witness remarked: "I wish gentlemen you would distribute these questions among others."

Gen Butler—We have been asking many of them because it is so rare that we have an honest witness.

There are many of them if you would only look after them. I find people of Louisiana as honest as those anywhere.

Gen Garfield appeared in the Potter committee room a short time this morning entirely recovered from his sickness. He took leave of members and friends and started for home.

The committee adjourned early. Potter, Hiscock and Butler left for New York, where they will examine Gov Palmer Monday and then adjourn subject to call.

VERY, VERY CHEAP DOLLARS—

COUNTERFEITS IN OTHER WORDS—AN ENORMOUS ISSUE OF THEM—THEY ARE CAPTURED BY THE SACKFUL

[Telegram to the New York Tribune.]

Reports received from secret service agents in all parts of the country indicate that the business of counterfeiting silver coins is a large and rapidly increasing one. The spurious issues include the new silver dollar, halves and quarters; those of the larger denominations are the more numerous.

At the secret service headquarters in the treasury department hundreds of sacks of these counterfeit coins, captured in different parts of the country have already accumulated and fresh additions to the stock are daily received. An analysis of the counterfeit coins shows that they are composed of block tin antimony and glass cast in molds made of plaster of paris. Among the new lot of counterfeit coins received to-day some were found which in appearance and by ordinary acid tests could not be distinguished from genuine coin. A careful examination led to the discovery that they were manufactured by the electro plating process, a sufficient coating of silver being placed upon the surface to make it resist the acid. The coin has the appearance and the ring of the genuine and can only be detected by weight.

The cost of manufacturing these spurious coins is about forty per cent of the current value of the genuine. The centers from which the counterfeit currency is chiefly circulated are Philadelphia, St Louis, Chicago, Indianapolis, Vincennes and Louisville. It is said at the treasury department to-day that an expert with a capital of $5 could set himself up in the business of counterfeiting silver coin.

How the South has Suffered

[From the New York Times.]

While there never was a civil war in which the victors displayed less vindictiveness toward the vanquished than in our contest with the south, there never was one in which from the peculiar nature of the conflict the vanquished lost so much. We hear so little of social life in the south to-day—for those who lost the most are the last to flaunt their woes—that very few north of Washington realize at all what it is; but in truth it can scarcely be said to exist. Speaking broadly there is no money anywhere. Out of New Orleans hardly a dry goods shop could be found which would offer a choice of half a dozen silk dresses, and a northern lady who passed the winter in Tennessee at a university town said she didn't think there were two dresses of such material among all her friends. In Mobile there are said to be now only three private carriages and no more than that number of persons who would think of giving any entertainment which in the north would come under the designation of a dinner party. What is quite as serious and sad is the deterioration of [illegible] of a cultivated and refined class. A southern banker asked a friend, a lawyer of high position, who had lately had occasion to travel in the country, how he found matters. He replied that he found men and women [illegible] his former friends and [illegible] rapidly sinking to the level of their own negroes. They have the means of subsistence [illegible] that is all [illegible] or literature or any of the arts and elegances of life and such an existence year after year will kill out any [illegible] no matter how well nurtured originally.

Gen Marcus J Wright of Memphis, who was confederate post commander at Macon during the latter years of the war, has been appointed by the secretary of war as agent for the collection of confederate records for the use of the government.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Treaty Ratified

[illegible] July [illegible].—All the powers except [illegible] ratified the treaty of Berlin.

Austria's Policy

CONSTANTINOPLE, July [illegible].—Austria has [illegible] the [illegible] convention with Turkey about [illegible] and Herzegovina and will not cover her troops into Bosnia and afterwards [illegible] a declaration to the [illegible] setting forth Austria's views and intentions.

Maltreatment of Jews

[illegible], July 27.—A number of row [illegible] [illegible] Jews [illegible] promises investigation [illegible].

Results of the Berlin Congress

LONDON, July [illegible].—The results of the Berlin congress continue to excite [illegible] [illegible] regard [illegible] as a challenge to that country both in regard to Syria and Egypt.

Sir Garnet Woolsely and Staff

Sir Garnet Woolsely, governor general and commander in chief of Cyprus, has selected for the officers of his staff nearly all those who served under him in the Ashantee campaign.

Sickness in Cyprus

Much sickness is anticipated among the troops at Cyprus who landed there at one of the most unhealthy seasons of the year. Admiral Yelverton, whose death is reported, is the officer whose divorce from his wife twenty years ago attracted such wide attention.

Big Gun a Failure

The Whitworth [illegible] 8 ton gun recently experimented upon at Woolwich proves to be a failure.

Anglo-Turkish Negotiations

CONSTANTINOPLE, July [illegible].—The porte and British ambassador deny that negotiations are proceeding for the cession of a port on the Syrian coast and the island of Tenedos to England. Persistent reports however are current that negotiations the object of which is unknown continue between England and Turkey.

Austria's Entrance of Bosnia

Austrians will enter Bosnia Sunday. It is expected they will encounter armed resistance. The Austrian government has distributed a proclamation in the native language. It says:

The Austrians come as friends to stop evils which for many years [illegible] disturbed Bosnia and [illegible] [illegible] and the Austrian borders. Emperor Francis Joseph could no longer look on and see the suffering of the provinces who were forced and [illegible] while the government of the country was incapable of restoring order and want and misery were knocking at the frontiers of his own states. The emperor therefore directed the eye of Europe to your position, at the council of nations it decided that Austria should give you back your long missed peace and prosperity. The sultan commits you to the protection of his mighty friend the emperor. The Austrian troops bring you peace, not war. They will protect all and oppress none. Established customs and institutions will be respected. The revenues will be applied solely to the wants of the country. Arrears of taxes will not be collected.

Austrian subjects in Servia belonging to Austrian reserves have been peremptorily summoned to join their battalions. This creates uneasiness because it indicates a far larger mobilization than was originally intended for the occupation of Bosnia.

Russians about Shumla.

Russians have occupied the chief positions around Shumla.

Embarkation of Russians.

The [illegible] have categorically assured the Porte that the Imperial guard will embark and the other [illegible] will retire as soon as Varna is surrendered.

English Politics.

LONDON, July 27.—In the house of lords to-night the Marquis of Salisbury replying to the question entered upon general defense of the government's policy in concluding the Anglo Russian agreement, which was intended to prevent war in the event of the failure of congress, and not to tie the hands of the government. During the discussion he declared the government was under no engagements for future except those which had been presented before the house. It had never promised Greece an increase of territory.

Hightoned Banquet

LONDON, July 28.—The Carleton club gave a grand banquet last night to the British plenipotentiaries to the congress. Lords Beaconsfield and Salisbury, the Duke of Buccleuch and Greenberry and five hundred peers and commoners were present.

Lord Beaconsfield replying to a toast awarded Lord Salisbury the greater share of merit in the labors at Berlin. He defended his conduct toward Greece saying he had counseled Greece to abstention and the facts proved that Greece obtained more than the revolted principalities which had lavished their blood and treasure. He passed a great eulogium on the present sultan who throughout was desirous of acting in a conciliatory manner to Greece. Lord Beaconsfield maintained that by the convention with Turkey we diminished not increased our responsibilities. He brought back from the convention that neither the Crimean nor the last war would have occurred if England had spoken out firmly. Repelling the assertion of Mr Gladstone that the Turkish convention was an insane convention, Lord Beaconsfield spoke of Gladstone as a sophistical rhetorician inebriated with the exuberance of his own verbosity and egotistical imagination.

Lord Salisbury and Sir Stafford Northcote also spoke.

INTEREST AND FLAX SEED

SALEM, July [illegible].

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A writer in a local paper accounts for the failure of the Pioneer Oil Co by saying it paid too high a rate of interest. Too failure can likewise be accounted for on the score of paying too high a price for flax seed. If the company had been able to buy seed at [illegible] cents per bushel instead of $1.50 it might not have failed. The fact is the failure of the oil company is largely attributable to other causes. Certainly its business has not at all times been wisely conducted. It was organized with numerous useless officers with large salaries. Its late owners bought the stock at fictitious prices, paying $60,000 for the works whereas $20,000 cannot be obtained for them. Large salaries were paid and expenditures were incurred in the conduct of the business while it was charged with considerable outside speculations of an unremunerative character or which proved a total loss. If the amount of capital necessary for the purchase of the property at its net value and for the conduct of the business on [illegible] basis had been borrowed without interest it could not have been repaid from the business [illegible] and conducted in the manner it was. Perhaps with money [illegible] and seed at half price it might have been [illegible]. JUSTICE [illegible].

Figures are now obtainable showing that Russia was enabled in spite of the great contest waged by her to keep her wheat [illegible] [illegible] up to her [illegible] standard. In 1876 she exported 146,015,000 bushels of the cereal. This amount was exceeded [illegible] bushels in the following year, [illegible] the war. It is true that there was a [illegible] of exports through the Black Sea ports but the falling off was more than offset by the [illegible] through the Baltic ports.

Our Dollar Discredited

[illegible], July 18.

In view of the report that 2,000,000 spurious American silver dollars have been put in circulation it is urged that Canadians especially on the frontier refuse this description of money altogether, particularly as [illegible] state that the imitation can only be detected by the most careful tests.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA

The "Johns" Won't Accede

Opinion of the Burlingame Treaty

Mr Seward, U. S. minister to China, arrived yesterday by the [illegible] en route to Washington. In speaking of the proposed measures to check Chinese immigration he expressed himself as strongly opposed to any legislation to abrogate the Burlingame treaty or defeat its interests on grounds of policy. He instead advises such negotiation as is provided for by the recent action of congress.

California Wheat Crop.

A careful analysis of reports received from various parts of the state relative to the probable wheat crop leads to the belief that the damage to the crop has been overestimated; that in many localities where a failure has been expected the harvest is proving a fair average and that it is quite possible there may be a surplus for export of nearly or quite 50,000 tons.

Canes and Pistols.

SAN FRANCISCO, July [illegible].—As F. H. Gassaway, a writer connected with the News Letter, was walking up Kearny street this afternoon [illegible] and John Staples, coming up behind him [illegible] Post street and knocked him down with a cane. Staples then began to [illegible] Gassaway, who was stunned for a moment by the blow, [illegible] the cane but soon [illegible] [illegible] got up and drew a pistol [illegible] bystanders interfered and Staples made his escape [illegible]. The assault is believed to have arisen from an article that appeared in the News.

Reported Sale of Bonanza Stocks

It is reported on the street to-day that J. G. Fair has purchased the interest of the heirs of the late W. S. O'Brien in the bonanza stocks.

The More Murder Trials

SAN BUENAVENTURA, July [illegible].—In the case of Curlee to-day the defense were steadily working away at impeaching the prosecution's witnesses but seemed to have no better success than on the preceding trial. Nearly the same witnesses were called who testified as before. Nothing new was elicited except some evidence that the missing witness Farrell was in the county at the time of the murder and might have been with Curlee as stated by the latter. The case will be submitted on Monday.

Suicide

RED BLUFF, July 28.—[illegible] afternoon [illegible] committed suicide at Long Ranch [illegible] 17 miles from this place. His remains were discovered [illegible] half past 6 with his throat cut. Deceased was about 50 years old and was much respected having resided in this vicinity for several years.

Old Citizen Drowned

WASHINGTON TERRITORY

Big Haul of Halibut.

SEATTLE, July 27.—Mr C. F. Dodge of the [illegible] Fishing Company returned on the steamer [illegible] from Neah Bay this morning where he has been trying to inaugurate halibut fishing on the banks of Cape Flattery. He chartered the schooner [illegible] started for the cape on Thursday of last week, arrived Sunday evening but drifted around in a fog until Tuesday, when he struck the banks. Putting out some Indians in canoes and the dories from the schooner in an hour the latter came back full of the finest halibut and then the Indians began to bring their catch in. Mr Dodge says the sight beggars description. In two hours they took in twelve tons of live halibut over the side, and had to refuse taking any more because they could not handle them. Each day since they have had more than they could begin to handle and all the men they have room for were salting fish. In fact there is no limit to the quantity of fish and the quality is unexcelled.

Something about a Princess.

[From the Austin Reveille.]

Sarah Winnemucca, the heroic Indian woman who has served the army of General Howard as guide and scout, is a member of the royal family of a Piute chief. Her influence is said to be very great in her tribe and among the friendly Indians. Her great courage, her faithfulness to her promises to the whites and her valuable services deserve more than a passing notice. Her history will be a romantic episode in savage warfare.

The above is from the Chicago Inter Ocean [illegible] is a good sample of the mush and romance the east [illegible] around the Indians. The truth about Sarah Winnemucca is that she is a drunken strumpet; her royal father is a [illegible] old beggar who is [illegible] [illegible] to accept cold grub or any [illegible] charity from the whites. Sarah was caught [illegible] to smuggle arms and ammunition to the Bannacks, she being in company with a [illegible] man at the time, and General Howard [illegible] her as a spy. There is about as much heroism in Sarah as there is in a coyote and about as much romance as in a game of seven up for fun.

France and Sound Money.

[From the Philadelphia Record.]

It is a very [illegible] piece of argument on the part of the apostles of rag money to refer the people of the United States to the example afforded in the management of French finances for a confirmation of their crude and impossible theories. France has resumed specie payment. France has no paper money that cannot be immediately converted into coin. The certainty of convertibility is so absolute that for [illegible] paper money is at a premium in consequence of its greater convenience in transaction. France had her day of paper money philosophy. [illegible] the bad money has [illegible] the aggregate wealth [illegible] to her [illegible] interests [illegible] experience [illegible] the United States would probably escape [illegible] France, but it would only be for the reason that France is so enlightened that [illegible] are not likely to [illegible] on the public mind.

Impudent but not Wholly Untrue

[From the Washington Post.]

Jeff Davis and Mr Hayes would seem to have a tacit understanding that each is to offset the other's great political movements. When Jeff raises a shrill shriek of secession in aid of faint and failing Radicalism Mr Hayes neutralizes the old man's kindly efforts by delivering a telling blow on the head of the Republican party in the Empire state. It would save a deal of profanity and perspiration and no small amount of vexation of spirit if Jefferson D and Rutherford B would effect a pair during the heated term.

FRAUDS OF "REFORMERS"

THE LOUISIANA FRAUDS DOUBLY DISCOUNTED—NICE RECORD OF CERTAIN PROMINENT FRAUD SHRIEKERS

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

The statement of Eph Holland, one of the local Democratic managers in Cincinnati, as to the methods by which the election was carried in that city in October 1876 for his party makes very interesting reading when one takes into account the Democratic protestations of reform and denunciations of fraud that have been so abundant of late. In making this statement, Holland was influenced by motives of revenge. In the first place he has been imprisoned for the commission of frauds upon the ballot box and thought his Democratic friends ought to have sworn him clear; and second although fairly elected as a delegate to the recent Democratic state convention he was not allowed admission, which certainly was rank ingratitude to one who had done so much for his party. Putting together the testimony upon which Holland was convicted and the statement which he now makes in revenge for his grievances we get the following highly interesting story of Democratic reform and honesty in the modes of conducting elections.

In order to give Tilden a good send off in November and lend eclat and impulse to the election it is necessary to carry Ohio with a rush in the October election. No one appreciated that necessity more keenly than Tilden himself and his managers and on the allotment of money from the "barl" for the west Cincinnati came in for $7,000. In order "to put it where it would do the most good" Holland was made purveyor, and he got in his work well. Three or four different assortments of precious rascals were imported from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago ready for any villainy that might be suggested to them and asking no other reward than ample expenses and whisky. His villains were divided into two factions. The ugliest and dirtiest, who could not be made to appear respectable by any amount of embellishment, soap, or clean linen, were voted, Eph Holland says, in the Democratic wards and precincts where ruffianism and filth were prima facie Democratic qualifications. The best looking and cleanest of the lot were selected for Republican wards and for once in their lives were arrayed in clean attire and polished up so as to imitate respectability, though they chafed under the indignity of a clean shirt and suffered much from the necessity of keeping sober, especially when they realized that the remainder of their fellows were getting gloriously drunk in the discharge of their patriotic duties. The respective gangs were kept busy all day and until the repeating grew tedious and monotonous. Even Holland himself was ashamed of it. He says: "Why, I voted my New York, Baltimore and Chicago men that day so many times I was ashamed to turn up with them. We kept going from poll to poll and back again, till it seemed foolish and like boys play." About 1,000 to 1,600 bogus votes were thus polled.

As the result of this infamous rascality Banning was elected to congress over Stanley Matthews by a purported majority of 70 and Sayler over Force by 500 majority, and the county ticket was run in by a few hundred. Had it not been for this ballot box stuffing by imported ruffians paid for with money from Tilden's "barl" both Banning and Sayler would have been defeated, and the Republicans would have elected the larger part of the county ticket. Holland says: "Why, I [illegible] to a certainty that Banning [was beaten in his dis]trict by more [illegible] Matthews in the second district [illegible] business to see those Republican votes overcome and I did it and was caught. But I never suffered any punishment. I was not paid for. As I said I was caught but the man (Banning) I was engaged to see elected enjoyed the office just the same that he never was elected to. This man Banning now holds his seat in congress by one of the boldest and most unblushing frauds ever perpetrated, and he knows it. The fraud was clearly proven in the courts and the organizer of it punished, and he knows it. He was honestly beaten by 500 votes and he knows it. Some Democrats hold offices which have been obtained by fraud, but the fraud has never been exposed. This man Banning holds on to his office after the fraud is exposed and officially proven in the courts. He has no hesitation in retaining his seat after it is shown by unquestioned testimony and by the confessions of the very rascals engaged in it that the ballot boxes in his district were stuffed by imported ruffians from Chicago, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other cities and that his opponent was fairly elected. To hold a seat obtained in this manner is disreputable, dishonorable and dishonest. In contrast with such a politician, Anderson deserves sympathy and Mrs Jenks appears as an exalted patriot. With all the assurance of this pair, it is doubted whether either of them would consent to occupy an office obtained by such means and exposed so completely. To cap the climax of audacity this man Banning sits in his fraudulent seat and votes out members honestly elected. When he has not been engaged in breaking down the army he has been howling himself hoarse at the president, and holding his seat by the most unblushing fraud ever committed in this country has been hypocritically bewailing alleged frauds in Louisiana and Florida and vociferously demanding their investigation in the interests of Democratic reform and purity!" No wonder that even Eph Holland, gambler and vagabond, indignantly exclaims: "Nice crowd they are to talk of morality and reform. I could buy all their souls with a dollar, and I have pocketed many a time the money that bought the places they hold. Reform—bah! it makes me sick. Why these men who kicked me out of the convention, in the cause of morality and reform, are the men who bought me to debauch the ballot box and falsify the returns and who paid me for it—the men for whom I suffered obloquy and disgrace, and a year's deprivation of my liberty in jail—nice reformers they are! I have had about enough of them."

A Politician whose Own Money Ruined His Hopes.

[Philadelphia North American.]

There is very little doubt that disappointed ambition was one of the principal causes of the insanity of Dr J C Ayer who died in an asylum the other day. He had succeeded in business but he wanted to have other fame than that of a pill maker and he went about it as he did everything else in a business like manner. He gave handsomely for political expenses, and promised at one time that if he was chosen chairman of a county nominating convention he would give $5,000 to the campaign fund. The unpopularity of the man is shown by the fact that he was beaten for the place which would have been given him without objection if it had not been evident that he proposed to buy it. The younger men of the party told him very plainly that these honors were given not sold. When he made up his mind to run for congress he sent his agents all through the district [illegible] the caucuses. He secured the weekly papers by advertising and used every means to carry his point. The result was that no one else cared to stand against his money. He was nominated easily only to find himself the worst beaten man in the state. [illegible] which had a Republican majority of 800 gave him only thirteen votes. His first attempt at notoriety was to give the new town of Ayer a town hall worth $40,000 on condition that they would give his name to the place.

A Striking Feature

[New York Commercial Advertiser Rep.]

One of the striking features of the present administration is its fondness for Liberal Republicans [illegible] Democrats and ex-rebels. Eighty per cent of the men appointed to office since President Hayes took possession of the White House have been voting the Democratic ticket and fought into the rebellion on the confederate side.

INDIAN MURDERS IN YAKIMA

MURDER OF LORENZO D. PERKINS AND WIFE—AN INDIAN RENDEZVOUS NEAR PRIEST'S RAPIDS—MOSES' INDIANS

YAKIMA CITY, July 25, 1878.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

To-day our flags are at half mast in respect to the memory of two of our most prominent and respected citizens, Lorenzo D. Perkins and his estimable wife, who have fallen victims to the treacherous savages. Fears have been entertained for more than a week but until last night we still entertained a hope that all might be well. The circumstances are as follows: Mr Perkins' ranch is on the Columbia about ten miles below White Bluffs. Hearing of the Indian outbreak and apprehending some danger he resolved to remove his wife to a place of safety and started for this city but on his way he was intercepted at Rattlesnake springs about twenty five miles from here. He left home about July 11th and is supposed to have been murdered that night. About the 16th three men were sent out from this place in search of him. They returned and reported having found his saddle blanket and a rope covered with blood.

Immediately thereafter a party of seven citizens and three Indians were dispatched to the spot. A messenger came in from there last night and reports that they found Mr Perkins and wife about three hundred yards from where they were camped, evidently having been dragged that distance with a rope. They were buried underneath a pile of rocks near together. Mrs Perkins was undoubtedly interred alive as her hands were protruding from between the rocks as if trying to extricate herself. Mr Conard and an Indian named Stick Jo found the bodies. They are badly decayed. Several parties left here at four o'clock this morning to bring in the bodies for reinterment. The general opinion is that the Indians who committed the murder are the same band that fired on the Burbank boys and made the raid on their horses.

The rendezvous for all the unfriendly Indians both from this side and the Oregon side of the Columbia is at the foot of Priest rapids, where they are collecting in great numbers. The place of crossing the Yakima river is at Lone Tree. They have their canoes there and stakes with different colored flags for some distance from the river to direct stragglers to headquarters. Chief Moses says he cannot control his young men and warns the settlers to look out for them. Father Wilbur is very sick but he sent parties this morning to arrest some of his Indians suspected of having something to do with the murder of the Perkinses. KRITO.

Indian Thieves

[From the Pendleton Independent.]

One day last week A. W. Nye, of Pendleton, in company with Mr Gilman, went in search of some stray horses. When six miles from town, on the east side of Wild Horse creek they saw a large band of horses had crossed the road going north in the direction of the Columbia river. From all indications it appeared they had been driven rapidly by. Mr Nye concluded to follow up the trail and see more about it. He traveled about one mile which brought him to Wild Horse creek the north boundary of the reservation. On the opposite side he saw a large band of horses that were strangers to him, and as most of them were not branded, and many [illegible] of the hostiles. When he got to the Barnhart gulch he saw two Indians gathering up horses. They at first pretended not to understand his questions. The other Indian could speak some jargon, but no satisfactory answer being received from him, Nye arrested him and brought him in, when the sheriff took him in charge. Mr Nye then consulted with Col Mizner of the regular army, who, after hearing his statement, told him to go and bring the band in. Eighteen men started, and after crossing the Umatilla halted and elected Nye captain. Captain Nye then divided his men and proceeded to capture the drove. They killed one Indian who would not halt but endeavored to escape and took two Indians and five or six hundred horses and brought them to Pendleton. We give Mr Nye's statement that all may know the facts in the case. Our people have grounds for hating the Indians. At a time like this rash acts may occur, but all men are not dishonest. Those that drove the horses in are among our very best citizens, and we are assured by them that their only wish was to have justice done to all.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT

ITS PRACTICAL USE IN NEW YORK CITY—PRIVATE HOUSES TO BE LIGHTED COMPARATIVELY FOR NOTHING

[New York Evening Post July 18.]

On the 25th of June last a patent was granted to a Mr Sawyer in this city for a system of dividing a current of electricity in such a manner that light could be distributed to the different rooms of a private house or other building. If a current of electricity is made to pass through a very small piece of carbon, the size of the lead of a pencil, an intense light is given forth for a few seconds. Then the oxygen of the air enables the heat to burn up and destroy the carbon. The only way known to prevent this so-called combustion from taking place is to place the carbon in a vacuum or in perfectly pure nitrogen. For experiments it was a very pretty plaything but no practical use could be made of it. It was impossible to make any reservoir of transparent or any other substance that was impermeable to air and there were impurities in the purest kind of nitrogen attainable which after a time spoiled the carbon. The patents issued to Mr Sawyer are for methods of hermetically closing the glass jar in which the carbon is placed, and for a means of chemically purifying the nitrogen. Both these ends have been successfully attained it is asserted and at No 4 Howard street in this city one of these lights may be seen in operation. The glass jar is about the size and shape of an ordinary lamp chimney. The wires from the electric machine, which is similar to the one used by Messrs Arnoux & Hochhausen, enter at the bottom and connect with the inch long bit of carbon. The jar is hermetically sealed and is filled with nitrogen absolutely pure. As soon as the current is sent through the wires the carbon becomes brilliant and intense. The light given is pure, white, not trying to the eyes and with not the slightest flicker. It is said that the electricity produced by one horse power will be sufficient to light by this system any room or house requiring about forty gas burners. To furnish this electric current to private houses it is proposed to have reservoirs of electricity in different parts of the town just as we now have gas reservoirs. The cost of putting the wires into a house is trifling compared to the cost of gas pipes and the electric lamp will not cost more than two dollars apiece. When once in place they need never be touched. No cleaning will be necessary, no matches will be used and finally there will be no danger of fire. Unlike the more powerful lamp for the Times building there will be no necessity of ever changing the carbons. In factories or buildings where steam power is used the electricity can be generated on the spot. The cost of electricity in private houses will scarcely be worth mentioning.

Still Conciliating.

[From the Cleveland Herald.]

Somehow or other the stalwart organs have overlooked the fact that President Hayes has just appointed the confederate general Harry Heth as a special agent of the treasury. If Heth puts half the energy into the work of catching whisky thieves that he used to devote to fighting the Union armies the revenue will be thoroughly collected in North Carolina.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

At the meeting of the Yale alumni, its oldest member Seth Pierce aged 97 spoke of his college days of 1806.

Congressman Finley of Ohio, thinks that Grant and Thurman will be opposing presidential candidates in 1880.

The Washington Post, referring to the Watterson-Hewitt dispute says that it hardly compensates the Democratic party for the loss of the presidency to prove anybody an ass or a liar.

Mrs Mary A. Livermore receives about $18,000 a year as the proceeds of her lectures. Her lectures are prepared with the greatest care and are never delivered until they are perfectly finished in every point.

The house in which Nathaniel Hawthorne passed some of his early years is still standing on the shores of Sebago Lake, in Maine. Here he lived a solitary life, and in after years he used to say: "It was there I first got my cursed habits of solitude."

The salaries of the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church are $3,000 per annum, and allowance for house rent. The same is paid to book agents and official editors at New York, Cincinnati and St Louis. Other editors receive salaries varying from $1,500 to $2,500.

The English steamer J. B. Walker recently sailed from New Haven for Constantinople with arms and ammunition for the Turkish government. She had on board 20,000,000 cartridges, 47,000 rifles, 54,000 sabres and bayonets and 10,000 scabbards. The total value of the cargo is $1,035,000.

Washington Post: There is talk of Senator Edmunds as a presidential candidate. A block of Kennebec ice in December would excite more enthusiasm than that frigid and austere statesman. He couldn't be more cold and distant if he had been trellised up on the north west side of Charles Francis Adams.

As a sign of the times at New York the Tribune says: The police say, and their records bear out the statement, that the number of houses deserted in this city by summer visitors to the country or the sea shore is less this year than usual. There is a remarkable absence thus far of burglaries in empty houses.

MINING IN THE SOUTH.

A CALIFORNIA OPERATOR'S VIEWS OF THE GEORGIA DEPOSITS.

[From the New York Graphic.]

Mr Gorham Blake, a California mining operator has purchased a large quantity of land in the Georgia gold fields, and intends to test hydraulic mining in the Dahlonega region. A representative of the Graphic meeting Mr. Blake, asked his opinion, as an expert, of the probabilities in that state. "In my judgment," said he, "there are vast quantities of gold to be found in northeastern Georgia. The mining so far has been of the rudest. The people seem to know nothing of the improved methods which have so long obtained in California. The surface of a large district is full of gold, and while there has been an abundance of water, hydraulic mining has not been attempted on an extensive scale. One New York speculator has dumps of gold ore to the value, I should think, of $10,000,000, but the gold is so exceedingly fine that it will require the utmost care to save it. By the rude methods of the Georgia miners only a slight percentage of the gold is saved. A couple of copper plates, the surface of which are oxydized, is all the safeguard against the waste of gold, whereas in California [illegible]."

Mr. Blake gave some instances of the folly and laziness of the mining operators, and said that as soon as the water was applied the gold would be washed out and saved by the improved processes which obtained in California. Five years have elapsed since he was in the latter place, and he intends to visit the state and ascertain what new devices there are for saving gold before he returns to the Dahlonega region.

"Mr Blake," said the writer, "are there any deep mines, such as the Comstock lode, in the Eastern States?"

"Not one, so far as I know. The deepest shaft in Georgia, I think, was 100 feet."

"Do you believe that gold might be found in quantities at great depths?"

"Most assuredly. There is no reason why gold and silver mines might not be discovered 1,000 feet below the surface, equal to any in California or Nevada. In one place there are seven adjoining veins. I should not be surprised if they ran together to a certain distance below the surface, and I intend to sink at least one deep shaft in my property."

"You are acquainted with the Comstock mines, Mr. Blake?"

"Yes, very well, indeed. I was one of the original owners of some of the ground now occupied by the Ophir and other mines."

"How do you account for the falling off in price of Consolidated Virginia and California?"

"My impression is that these mines are now too deep to be worked profitably, not but that there is an abundance of rich ore—indeed, it gets richer as they go deeper—but the heat is so tremendous that human beings can't get at it. Men can't live more than two or three minutes in the lower depths. 110 and 116 degrees of heat is experienced in these lower depths, and the air in those deep recesses is insufficient to sustain life, while the water is scalding hot. I owned Comstock lode stock, but sold out some time ago, as I apprehended that the mines could not be worked at so great a depth."

"Do I understand you, then, that the mines are as large producers of ore as ever?"

"Certainly, the ore is richer the lower the depth. There is more gold, and it is of a finer quality, but men can't work it below 2,000 feet. It makes no difference, winter or summer, or what device is employed—the heat becomes terrible by the time the lower levels are reached. Each man is allowed five gallons of ice water per day. It does not affect him much for the water passes off in perspiration. When the man comes to the surface he gives forth a perfect cloud of steam."

Mr Blake, who seems to be a very intelligent gentleman, speaks in high terms of the future of gold and silver mining in this country, and thinks that as good a prospect exists for profitable mining on the Atlantic slope as on the Pacific.

Almota, like most places on the Columbia river, had its scare too, so much so that they erected breastworks in front of the Almota hotel. The breastworks were constructed of bags of sand piled up about 5 feet high.

A REGULATION JUGGLE

t is an old trick of politicians in congress cut down appropriations just before impor t elections and then go before the people th a great show of retrenchment and reform variably the next congress is obliged to ake up the amount with a deficiency bill t the expedient answers its temporary pur se, and the partisans who control the next ngress can again resort to it with equal ccess This dishonest device was never nployed to greater extent than by the last ngress In decreeing a so-called economy expenditure that body proceeded on no stem of selection or distribution It simply zeed appropriations, regardless of the obli tions of the government or the needs of the rvice It didn't forget the regular jobs in ropriations through which each represent ve got a big allowance for his district to be xpended nominally in converting creeks nto national highways, but in reality for the urpose of inducing his people to re elect im but it cut off large sums from branches f the public service most necessary to be rovided for, as the army and the Indians hus inciting the latter to outbreak and leav ng the former without pay for fighting them The visitation of hostile Indians under which Oregon has suffered, is the most recent fruit of the demagogy that denied appropriations indispensable to the public service in order to make an argument for the last presidential election, but it may not be the last of the evil consequences growing out of that action. Of course much of the great aggregate sum cut off by the last congress has since been allowed and paid To cover those deficiencies very large additions to the general appropriation bill have necessarily been made by the present congress. In consequence the appropriations made by congress for the present year exceed those made at the corresponding session of the last congress by the great sum of $28,752,265 49 Thus postponement of appropriations has not resulted in any advantage to the government It has, however, been in some respects very injurious to the country. According to the admissions of Mr. Atkins, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, it required $30 242,165 to make up the deficiencies resulting from the pretended retrenchments of the last congress under which it was sought to carry the presidential election It is not necessary to allege that one of the political parties would be more scrupulous or have a higher conscience than the other in a matter of this kind, should the same opportunity offer itself to both; but it is an incident which shows the insincerity of mere partisan leaders, and which should keep the people constantly on their guard against the duperies attempted by politicians who cry for reform very much as the person who is supposed to be the representative and embodiment of evil may upon occasion quote Scripture [illegible] his purpose. These are shifts and fetches [illegible], it would seem have been exposed often enough heretofore to prevent any new imposture. Yet multitudes appear to take a kind of pleasure in being misled and befooled in any matter which is presented in a way that appeals to their partisan prejudices. On this particular occasion the lesson to be derived from the craft and cunning and unworthiness of partisan strategy becomes more impressive to the people of Oregon from the obvious mischiefs [illegible]

A dispatch gives notice of a decision by Secretary Schurz to the effect that Union Pacific railroad lands not yet sold may now be pre-empted by settlers It should be stated that the rule is understood as applying to many other land grants besides that of the Union Pacific. The secretary in his decision says that nearly all the grants contain conditions. Some of these are conditions precedent, and others conditions subsequent In the case of the Union Pacific and several others a condition was that all the lands not sold by the companies within a specified time should become subject to pre-emption, like other lands, at $1 25 per acre The specified time in the case of the Union Pacific the secretary finds was three years. He therefore instructs the local land offices to allow pre emption of these lands, but, as the proceeds at $1 25 per acre are to be paid over to the company, he requires a separate account to be kept and returned of the moneys thus received. In consequence of this decision lands in Nebraska which have been held worth $12 an acre are now to be sold at $1 25, unless the company can beat the department by an appeal to the courts. It is not stated yet what other grants are in like condition It is a rule which, however, can have application only where the roads have been completed. In his argument the secretary says congress undoubtedly had the right to make the grants unconditional and absolute, and the companies had the right to accept or reject the grants with the conditions therein made, but having accepted them they are now estopped to deny their force and effect. The proviso was inserted clearly that congress did not intend the lands granted to be held at speculative prices. He adds that while it is true that no decision of the supreme court clearly and distinctly defines the right of the government in disposal of these lands, still the decisions clearly indicate the opinion of the court that such right exists

GOV GEO L CURRY

Among the men whose names are interwoven with almost every important public event in the early history of Oregon none were more prominent than he whose decease we are now called upon to record. Concerning his early life we are in possession of but little information He came to Oregon in 1846, and soon after his arrival here assumed editorial charge of the Oregon Spectator at Oregon City, the first newspaper published in the country He was afterwards about 1854, appointed governor of the territory by President Pierce and held that position until the organization of the state government 1859 Occupying the gubernatorial chair at the time of the Indian war in 1854-5 he was very active in co operating with the general government in securing protection for the scattered settlers In official life we have never heard of a single charge tarnishing his character though his public career embraced a time when political rancor ran to a high pitch and but few men escaped the shafts of calumny Since his retirement from the office of governor he has filled other important trusts both public and private and always in an acceptable manner His interest in behalf of the welfare of Oregon was great and having seen the state in her infancy and weakness he rejoiced in her fuller growth and her power among the states of the Union A Democrat in politics, he was earnest in his convictions as such, but not an extremist, and labored for men rather than party Hence in the days when strict partisanship was made a test of merit he was passed in the political race by others less worthy of preferment

In private life and among his neighbors and personal acquaintances Gov Curry was universally esteemed and by those most intimate with him he was regarded with most affection His affable and courteous manner, his fine conversational powers and his well stored mind made him an agreeable companion In fact a leading trait of his character was that of urbanity and he was everywhere recognized as a true gentleman and an honest man

For many weeks past he has been prostrated by sickness and for several days his hold on life has been so frail that almost every hour was thought to be his last Yesterday evening as the Sabbath sun was sinking behind the western mountains his physicians and family saw that the last moments for him on earth had come and ere the darkness of night had settled over the world, the spirit was disengaged from its mortal tenement and the immortal had flown to the world beyond In his death his family have lost their best earthly friend the city one of its most useful and honorable citizens and the state of Oregon one of her most esteemed founders His influence in public affairs will long be felt and his memory be fondly cherished

While it is true that the constitution of the United States declares the qualifications of senators and that no other qualifications can be required by any state, it is also true that every person who on receiving another office, before entering which he is required to take an oath that he will not accept any other official position during the term for which he may have been elected, will probably consider himself bound by that oath and the fact that he has taken it will not only have weight with him but also with the legislature and the people A judge of the supreme court of Oregon takes an oath that he will not, during the term for which he has been elected, accept any other office except judicial offices He could not become a judge without taking this oath If it disables him from seeking another position he has his reward in the dignity and salary of the judgeship which he can obtain on no other conditions. Of course, if such person should be sent to the senate that body would receive him, but it is not likely that any judge would seek it, or that the legislature would elect him Members would be conscientious on this point — particularly those who might favor other candidates We believe the constitution of the state ought to be strictly observed in this particular, and only regret that it does not require the governor and secretary of state to take the oaths as well as the judges of the supreme court Though this condition would not render one ineligible at Washington it might be expected to operate as a bar to the election of a judge in our state to any office of another kind We do not know that there is any judge in Oregon who is a candidate for the senate Probably there is not But the matter is receiving some attention from the press, and this statement therefore seems necessary and just

This business every day becomes more and more complicated. If, now it should appear that Gov Chadwick's Indian campaign had given him a hold in Eastern Oregon which couldn t be shaken even by the popularity of Hon Jo Smith, and if Bonham should beat Burnett for control of the Willamette valley [illegible] rendering it necessary for the sake choice and displacing him for Dr Hawthorne in order to prevent members from violating the constitution by voting for Judge McArthur or Judge Prim, what would be the show for Nolttner as against Slater, provided the legislature should forgive the former for having been an "expert," and the latter should refund without unnecessary delay his share of the salary grab? We trust we are understood and pause for a reply

An opinion has been given by the attorney general to the secretary of the treasury that the resumption act does not warrant payment of gold for greenbacks before the 1st January, 1879, but that there is nothing to prevent him from paying out silver dollars for the expenses of the government whenever he chooses It is not however, such an easy matter to pay out the silver dollars They will not stay paid out They are worth as much as gold dollars to pay customs duties with, and as long as they answer this useful purpose it is impossible to keep them in circulation Though the government has offered to pay transportation on the silver wheels to distant points in the Mississippi states where the people have been supposed to be famishing for the "dollar of the fathers," the offer has not been accepted Greenbacks are preferred

If it be true, as reported, that the O. S N Co offered to take $8 000 for the strip of land at the Cascades for which the jury gives them $7 500, it would have been better to pay the money at the beginning. This would have saved expense of litigation and some months of that part of the season most favorable for work However, if the work can proceed now, as it will of course unless an appeal is taken the public will be well satisfied

A new loan has been authorized by the Japanese government but it is sold only to natives Holders of the bonds are not even allowed to transfer them to foreigners It is pitiful to witness such ignorance of the first principles of financial economy Why don t they get their loan taken by foreigners and then propose, as some of our statesmen do to repudiate it or pay it in cheap silver dollars made for the purpose?

The Standard is running a pretty stiff tilt for Slater for senator but there is not a general impression that the influence of that paper will decide the contest

A SAD, TERRIBLE BEREAVEMENT

A LITTLE DAUGHTER OF CAPT H COOK FATALLY BURNED—MRS COOK VERY PAINFULLY BURNED IN ATTEMPTING TO PUT OUT THE FIRE

About 4 30 P M yesterday a most shocking and fatal accident occurred at the residence of Capt Horatio Cook, located on the west side of Second street between Stark and Washington Capt Cook the old and well known undertaker lives in the second story of the wooden building the lower portion of which is occupied as his shop At the hour named his little daughter Dolly was sent into the kitchen to kindle a fire The girl went into the kitchen and started a fire The fire did not burn up as briskly as desired and Dolly without so much as giving consequences a second thought, picked up a small can of kerosene and began to pour the inflammable fluid over the fire In an instant the flames shot out and following up the stream of oil like a train of powder, caused the can to explode Instantly the burning fluid was scattered all over the girl setting fire to her clothes Screaming with pain and fright Dolly ran through the building to one of the rooms fronting on Second street Fanned by the wind created in passing through the house and fed by the inflammable fluid, the flames soon enveloped the girl Her screams brought Mrs Cook to the rescue and in her frantic efforts to extinguish the flames and save her child, the mother's clothing caught and she was also badly burned The noise speedily brought others to the scene and the fire was extinguished, but not until Dolly was fatally and Mrs Cook very painfully burned As soon as possible the charred and half consumed clothes were taken from the girl and she removed to Dr Saylor's office An examination of the person of Dolly disclosed the painful fact that she was horribly burned There was a small space in the region of the stomach and also on the back where the fire had not reached All the rest of her body, breast sides back arms hands and lower limbs were so badly burned that the skin dropped off in pieces The spectacle was truly a most heartrending one Everything which medical skill could devise was done to relieve the sufferings of the child For a time she seemed to be resting as comfortably as could possibly be expected, and slender hopes were entertained that she might survive Such hopes were destined to be rudely dashed to earth, for after lingering in great pain for several hours death came to her relief and about 6 30 o clock P M the little spirit passed away to the shadowy and unseen land

Mrs Cook s injuries, although very painful and severe, are not regarded as necessarily fatal Her hands, one side and leg are severely burned, and with careful nursing it is hoped she will recover

The explosion set fire to the kitchen and soon the entire apartment was in a sheet of flames A general alarm of fire was sounded and the department promptly responded However, the fire was quickly subdued before much damage resulted The loss will be nominal

This sudden and sad bereavement falls with peculiar and crushing weight on Capt Cook and his estimable wife In this, their great sorrow, the parents have the strongest and warmest sympathies of the whole community

TIGER'S NEW ENGINE

The city fathers having determined to purchase a steam engine for Tiger Engine Company, a good deal of competition arose between agents of the different manufacturers of engines represented here The committee on fire and water of the council finally determined to procure a fourth class Amoskeag steamer, and signed an agreement to that effect and delivered it to Mr W T Everson the agent of the makers of that style of engines on last Saturday, and Mr Everson immediately telegraphed the order to manufacturers at Manchester, New Hampshire According to the terms of the agreement the engine is to be of about 3 200 pounds weight, made of the very best material Her boiler is to be 26½ inches in diameter, covered with a German silver jacket properly banded, and surmounted by a German silver dome Her cylinder will have a diameter of 6⅛ inches and 8 inch stroke The pump is to be a double acting plunger with 8 inches stroke with a capacity to lift 350 gallons of water per minute Suction hose signal whistle discharge pipes nozzle lanterns, headlight tools and tool chest are to be furnished by the contractors, who are to deliver the engine in Portland free of cost to the city by the first day of November 1878 except freight and the payment of $3 500 in U S currency The makers are also to deliver to the city a written guaranty that the engine will do her work satisfactorily and that all repairs if any are needed for one year, will be made without cost to the city The Amoskeags, now in use in the city have given good satisfaction and we doubt not that Tigers will have a machine with which they will be able to do good service and of which they will justly feel proud

Puget sound papers are boasting that the three months time which the Northern Pacific folks will have to survey the passes of the Cascades this fall, will give them sufficient time to make notes and maps of the routes and take observations suitable for their purpose so that when the extension bill comes up next winter in congress there will be no trouble in rushing it through Should the grant be renewed direct to the sound, people of Oregon would have a new proof of the great value of Mitchell's services to their state

Winnapsnoot's house on Umatilla reservation was burned some nights since. The Independent intimates a belief that it was set on fire by some person, and says it would not be surprised to hear of such things frequently The people, it says, are positive that the Indians did aid the hostiles up to the day of the battle at the agency, and some probably participated in that battle But it counsels against an insane policy of revenge and says such a course will result in no good whatever It warns those who think this a good way to get the Indians removed that it will have precisely the opposite effect

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

PORTLAND July 8 1878

By request of No 5's engine company and its friends Councilman Lambert introduced an ordinance last June to purchase a steam engine for that company It passed with but little opposition The committee on fire and water and the chief engineer were directed to procure the same It has always been customary for the company to express a preference as to the kind of engine they desired, and the council have always acquiesced A meeting was called for that purpose. By request of the committee and by request of Mr Lambert and the chief engineer who favored the Silsby engine I was present in the interest of that style of engine, and Mr J yec and W W Page for the Amoskeag I presented for examination book papers, etc of both engines—Amoskeag and Silsby After carefully examining the same and through the recommendation of the chief engineer, a letter of endorsement of this style of engine (Silsby) was read from J H Lyons, ex chief The company took a vote, and the Silsby received all but two votes A committee was then appointed to wait upon the chief engineer and committee on fire and water, and request them to buy a fifth size Silsby engine. When this committee met (W H Andrus in the chair) a member of No 1 of the same company as Andrus, sent in a proposal to sell them an Amoskeag engine the same which had already been rejected by the engine company The committee from 5 s reported and Mr Kelly of the committee stated the action of the company and their expressed desire for a Silsby

This did not suit Andrus, as his favorite man or himself as the case may be would not furnish the engine Andrus therefore adjourned the committee and finally and at once goes to work to "boll dosing" Weber who at this time was in favor of the Silsby and also at this time had some respect for the preference expressed by the company for which the engine was to be purchased

When the committee met again if ever I have no knowledge One thing is certain the Silsby was rejected the chief engineer standing off not daring to face Andrus in his determination to sell the Amoskeag I will not argue the merits of the engines when the Silsbys are so well and favorably known in this city

If the public understand this "dark lantern" way If they do not know, they can do so by watching the letting of contracts under Andrus and his pliant tool Weber More when necessary

Y MORNING, JULY 29, 1878.

TANTALUS.

I at the banquet of the gods have sate
  Above the clouds that shroud these earthly plains,
Their nectar quaffed, and their ambrosia ate,
  And felt the Olympian ichor in my veins.

Apollo, like a glory in a gloom,
  Jove's thund'rous brow, and Juno's face serene,
Chaste Dian's grace—the natural blush and bloom
  That Venus owns—these mortal eyes have seen.

Mad with desire I strove the charm to seize
  That should again renew to sense and soul
On earth below those heavenly ecstasies—
  And I their nectar and ambrosia stole.

But who against the gods shall e'er prevail?
  The bliss of heaven on earth we may not own,
Stale tastes the nectar here, the ambrosia stale,
  The ethereal flavor lost, the aroma flown.

And so the gods condemn me here to stand
  Thirsting within the stream that from me flees—
Hungering 'mid fruits ambrosial that my hand
  For ever vainly reaches but to seize.

My sense the music of Apollo haunts,
  But dim and distant and beyond my reach;
I hear afar the gods' grand utterance
  But cannot shape it into mortal speech.

In silence still I feel as in a dream
  Their dim mysterious whisperings everywhere—
On the lone hills—in forest, reed, and stream—
  In night's low breathings, in the sea's despair.

So taunting ever with half confidence
  That wins the listening ear, but will not speak,
Pleasing and puzzling all the soul and sense,
  The god's forever mock us mortals weak.

O Poets, in whatever realm or clime,
  Pity me—Tantalus—for you must feel
How nature lures us on with dreams sublime,
  And hints the secret she will ne'er reveal.

—Blackwood's Magazine.

DESERTED.

A briery lane, where wild birds sing
  All through the Summer day;
A beech tree old, whose branches fling
  Long shadows o'er the way.

A nest, built up in the rustling boughs,
  Lined soft with moss, so green.
A tiny dwelling—a woodland house,
  With leaves for a sheltering screen.

Three delicate eggs, that pearl like lie
  Beneath two brooding wings.
A mate that hovers all watchful by,
  Or sits beside, and sings.

A careless boy, with a pitiless heart
  That cares not for loving things;
A bird, that rises with timid start,
  On scared and fluttering wings.

A sorrowful note of plaint and woe
  Rings out on the quiet air,
And the pearl-like eggs lie crushed below,
  On the beech roots, old and bare.

And still, in the boughs of the old beech tree,
  'Mid its rustling sprays of green,
The deserted nest, you still may see
  Peep out from its verdant screen.

But the bird on its gay and gladsome wing
  Returns to the nest no more;
And the mate that would sit on the boughs and sing,
  His Summer songs are o'er.

And nought can bring from the happy Past
  When light and love have fled
(Though the walls of the dear old home may last,)
  But memories of the dead.

Defaulting Democratic Treasurers.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

The Democrats of Ohio are having very hard luck with their county treasurers. The Stark county treasurer has defaulted and ran away with $65,000. The Democratic treasurer of Butler county has embezzled $125,000. The Democratic treasurer of Auglaize ran off with $32,000. The Democratic treasurer of Holmes stole $29,000. The Democratic treasurer of Clermont "lit out" with $26,000. The Democratic treasurer of Coshocton "mizzled" with $20,000. The Democratic treasurers of Ottawa, Defiance, Van Wert, Ashland, Crawford, Henry, Licking, Wyandot, Wayne, Allen and Belmont counties have all proved defaulters.

Possible Removal of the New York Postmaster.

[New York Special, July 21.]

The Times' editorial, in view of the rumors about Postmaster James, says: "We presume no one is now sufficiently infatuated to have faith in President Hayes as a civil service reformer. A want of sincerity and frankness is not now alleged against the president for the first time." The article concludes: "Hayes may not usurp authority, but his exercise of it in these matters tends to bring it into contempt."

An Additional Missionary.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Dispatches describe the extraordinary scene at Miles' battle at Umatilla reservation. The Umatillas took sides with neither party, but watched the fight as our young men about town watch a horse race, seeming to "relish the sport." This is a degree of friendliness toward the whites which ought to be rewarded by the immediate appointment of an additional missionary.

At Montreal recently George Lessard, aged ninety-eight years and six months, married Thirtice Legault, a spinster of fifty. The groom served under Napoleon in the campaign of Egypt, fought in Canada in 1812, is still hale and vigorous, and declares that he will not die for twenty years to come.

Springfield, Mass., Union: All right-minded persons must feel disgusted and humiliated to see important and responsible offices peddled out in the way these have been, simply because the president and Secretary Evarts don't like Senator Conkling.

BEAUTY:

OR, THE

Secret of a Fair Face.

An Item of Interest to Every Lady who Desires to be More Beautiful than she now is.

Unfortunately not one woman in a hundred, subjected to the whims of an American climate, possesses that basis and starting point of real beauty—a pure and clear complexion. What nature has thus denied, art must be called upon to furnish. It can be done; it is done daily. Prof. W. E. Hagan placed beauty within the reach of every unblessed daughter of Eve when he discovered that surprising article known in fashionable circles as the true secret of beauty, and called

MAGNOLIA BALM

The MAGNOLIA BALM is a sure device for creating a pure and blooming complexion. It conceals all natural blemishes in the most surprising and effective manner. It removes all roughness, eruptions, redness, blotches, freckles, and tan with magical power. It drives away all evidence of fatigue and excitement. It makes the plainest face beautiful. It gives the complexion a dazzling purity and makes the neck, face, and arms appear graceful, rotund and plump. It makes a matron of 35 or 40 look not more than 20 years old, and changes the rustic maiden into a cultivated city belle.

The Magnolia Balm removes all blemishes and conceals every drawback to beauty; and, while it is as harmless as water, it is so life-like in its effects that the closest observer cannot detect its use. Ladies who want to make themselves attractive can make an absolute certainty of it by using HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM, and we know of no other way. It is the cheapest preparation in the world, all things considered, and may be had at any drug store.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Acute Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases: Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys, as well as diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of, and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES

to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints, and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE

over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success. All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally, and will forward the proper medicines, or instruments, to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps.

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify.

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors, through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them: they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN, the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door.
